A source says West and Censori have a "very strange relationship. He treats her like a doll."

KIM & KANYE

Where They Stand

Kim Kardashian and Kanye West are putting their kids first as they navigate life as coparents. "They may not always see eye to eye, but they've managed an amicable relationship by focusing solely on their children," says one source. (West, 46, and Kardashian, 43, share North, 10, Saint, 8, Chicago, 6, and Psalm, 4.) So while West and his new wife, 29-year-old Bianca Censori, have been making headlines for their controversial fashion choices and explicit PDA, Kardashian isn't letting their antics affect her: "She knows North has a happy relationship with Bianca, and that's all that matters to her. What happens in their personal life is none of her business." The same can't be said for West. A second source tells Us the rapper is "jealous" of Kardashian's romance with Odell Beckham Jr. (The pair were photographed together for the first time on Feb. 10 in Las Vegas.) "Kim and Odell are getting serious, [so] it's a sticky situation," says the second source, insisting that, despite appearances, West is still in love with his ex: "He won't love any other woman more than he loves Kim."
